

Accessibility and development of services for English-speaking people challenge you? We need your help!

Rouyn-Noranda, May 23, 2019 - The Centre intégré de santé et de services sociaux (CISSS) de l'Abitibi-Témiscamingue is looking for people who are committed to improving access to health and social services in English throughout the region. We need people interested in getting involved in concrete ways.

A call for applications is underway to recruit members to sit on the regional committee for access programs to services in English in Abitibi-Témiscamingue.

This committee represents the regional English-speaking community. It is composed of 7 to 11 members. Its role is to assist the CISSS Board of Directors of the Abitibi-Témiscamingue region in the planning, programming and evaluation of services, specifically from the perspective of accessibility for English-speaking people.

If you are interested in developing and improving health and social services for the regional English-speaking community, do not hesitate to submit your application!

To do so, you must contact one of these organizations promoting the interests of English-speaking people in Abitibi-Témiscamingue:
